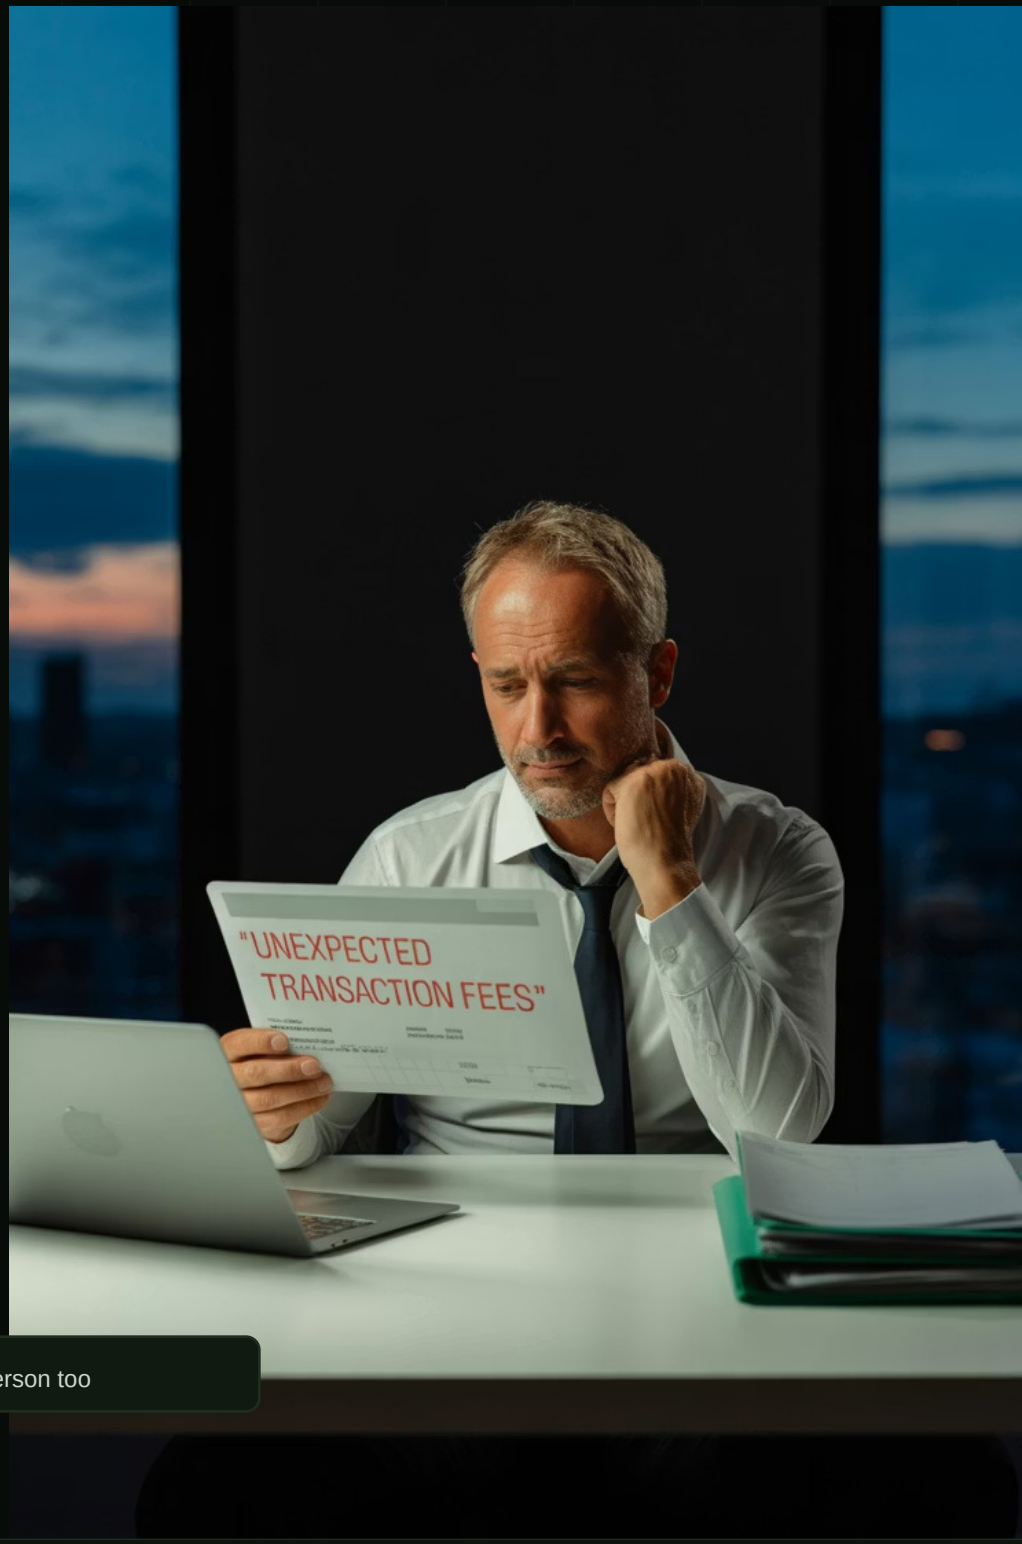
MODULE 03 · COPY & USE SCRIPTS

Scripts &

Word-for-Word Openers

Ready-to-use scripts for every situation — text, call, in-person, and social media.



- 15+ scripts
- Text & call
- In-person too

How to Use These Scripts

1. Read it out loud first
   Before sending or saying any script, read it aloud once. If it sounds weird coming out of your mouth, adjust the wording until it sounds like you.

2. Fill in the blanks
   Anywhere you see [Name] or [Business], personalize it. Generic messages feel generic. Specific messages feel genuine.

3. One script per situation
   Don't mix scripts or cram multiple messages into one conversation. Each script has a purpose — use the right one at the right moment.

4. Adapt, don't memorize
   The best referral partners don't sound scripted. They internalize key phrases and speak naturally. Practice until it feels effortless.

5. When in doubt, be shorter
   Shorter messages get read and replied to more. If you're unsure, cut it in half.

Text Message Openers

■ Best for: anyone you already text with

Hey [Name]! Random question — do you know what your effective credit card processing rate is? Asking for a reason ■

■ Works best for: close friends, family members who own businesses

Hey [Name], I just started working with a local company called TechSavvy Hawaii — they completely eliminate credit card processing fees for businesses. Most save $800–$2K/month. I thought of you immediately — want me to connect you with them for a free look at your numbers?

■ Works best for: business contacts, acquaintances

Hey [Name] — totally random but I heard a business owner saved $1,400/month by switching processors and immediately thought of [Business Name]. Have 10 minutes for a free look at your statement?

■ Works best for: someone specific you know is paying a lot

Hey! I've been referring local businesses to TechSavvy Hawaii and the feedback has been amazing — most are saving $800–$2K/month. Do you know what you're currently paying in fees? Might be worth a free 10-min look.

■ Works best for: after your first referral has converted

The Complete 60-Second Call Script

Opening (0–10 sec)

"Hey [Name], quick question for you — do you have like 60 seconds?"

Always ask for time first. It shows respect and gets them focused.

The Curiosity Question (10–25 sec)

"Random question — do you know what you're actually paying in credit card fees every month? Like the real effective rate, not just the advertised rate?"

Most people say "honestly, not really." That's your opening.

The Bridge (25–40 sec)

"So I've been working with TechSavvy Hawaii — they help businesses eliminate those fees completely. Most save $800 to $2,000 a month. I immediately thought of [Business Name]."

Keep it short. Benefit first, details never.

The Ask (40–55 sec)

"Would you be open to a free 10-minute call with their team? No commitment — they just show you exactly what you're paying versus what you could be paying."

Simple yes/no close. No pressure.

Close (55–60 sec)

"Awesome, I'll connect you guys!" OR "No worries at all — if you ever want a look, just let me know!"

Either way, you end positively.

In Person Scripts

At Their Business (Casual Visit)

- "Hey, while I'm here — random question. Do you know what your actual processing rate is? I started working with a company that eliminates those fees for most businesses. Saved one owner I know over $1,200 a month. Mind if I send you their info?"

■ Intentionally low-pressure. You're just visiting — this is a bonus.

At a Social Event

- "[Name]! Hey, totally off topic but — do you know what you're paying in card fees? I've been connecting business owners with this local company and the savings are insane. I'll text you the info — take a look when you have a sec."

■ Keep it brief at social events. Plant the seed, send the text follow-up later.

At a Networking Event

- "Hey, what do you do? Oh really — do you take cards? So I have to ask — do you know your effective processing rate? Most business owners pay 3–4% and have no idea. I work with TechSavvy Hawaii that removes those fees completely. Want me to connect you?"

■ Slightly more direct — you're both in business mode already.

After They Mention Tight Margins

- "Oh, you mentioned margins being tight — have you looked at your processing fees lately? That's usually a $800–$2,000/month line item most owners don't realize they can cut completely. I can connect you with someone who does a free analysis."

■ Listing fees are sticky. Fees come up constantly in business conversations.

Social Media & DM Scripts

■ Best for: acquaintances, LinkedIn connections, Instagram/Facebook contacts

Hey [Name], hope things are going well at [Business]! Quick question — do you know your effective credit card processing rate? I've been connecting local business owners with TechSavvy Hawaii — they eliminate processing fees entirely, most save $800–$2K/month. Happy to connect you for a free 10-minute statement review if you'd like — no commitment at all. Let me know!

■ Professional tone. Gets straight to the benefit.

Hey [Name]! Love what you're doing with [Business] ■ Random question — have you ever had anyone break down your credit card fees for you? I've been connecting local businesses with TechSavvy Hawaii and they're saving like $800–$2,000/month. Would you want me to connect you for a free look?

■ Warmer tone. Start with a genuine compliment about their business.

Shoutout to the local business owners quietly paying $800–$2,000/month in processing fees they don't fully understand. ■ TechSavvy Hawaii eliminates those fees for most businesses — zero monthly fees, no contracts, just savings. If you own a business that takes cards, DM me — happy to connect you with them for a free analysis. ■

■ Great for generating inbound interest without directly pitching anyone.

The Referral Handoff — Making the Intro

Once someone says yes, make the warmest possible introduction. A warm intro converts at 3x the rate of a cold referral.

Three-Way Text Introduction (easiest method):

> "Hey [Merchant Name] ■ Meet [TechSavvy Contact] — they're the team I mentioned from TechSavvy Hawaii. [TechSavvy Contact], this is [Merchant Name], they own [Business Name] in [City]. I told them about the free statement analysis and they're interested! I'll let you two take it from here ■"

Sending a referral directly to TechSavvy:

> "Hey TechSavvy team! I have a referral: [Name] from [Business Name], [phone/email]. They own a [type] in [area] and take cards. I mentioned the free analysis and they're open to a call. Best time to reach them: [if known]"

Follow up with your contact 2 days later:

> "Hey [Name] — did TechSavvy reach out yet? Just making sure the connection went through! Let me know if you have any questions — happy to help."

Shows you care about their experience. Builds trust for future referrals.

They already said no once before

- "Hey, totally different subject but [Business] came to mind — a few things have changed since we last talked. TechSavvy now has zero monthly fees, no contracts at all. Want me to send you a quick overview? No pressure if not."

■ Only revisit after 3–6 months. Don't bring it up sooner.

Close friend or family (feels awkward)

- "Okay I feel slightly awkward bringing this up but I'd feel worse NOT mentioning it — do you know what you're paying in fees? Because there might be a way to cut a big chunk of that. Can I send you some info?"

■ Acknowledge the awkwardness — it actually makes it feel less awkward.

They seem skeptical / "sounds too good to be true"

- "I completely get that — I thought the same thing at first! The short version: they use a cash discount model — customers pay a small surcharge for cards, you pay zero. It's fully legal and very common now. Would you want them to show you how it works for your business?"

■ Prospects skeptical when they hear "no fees" or other over-promise results.

They ask how much you earn from it

- "Full transparency — yes, I earn a referral fee if you sign up. But I only refer people I think will genuinely benefit, and there's zero cost to you for the free analysis. If it doesn't make sense for your business, I'll tell you that too."

■ Honesty builds more trust than hiding it. Never conceal the referral relationship.

Master Script Quick Reference

■ Text Message
Curiosity opener · Benefit-first · Thought of you · Social proof

■ Phone Call
Complete 60-second call script (5 phases)

■ In-Person
At their biz · Social event · Networking · Tight margins

■ DM / Social
LinkedIn · Instagram/Facebook · Your own post

■ Handoff
Three-way intro · Direct to TechSavvy · 2-day follow-up

Key Phrases to Memorize

"Do you know your effective processing rate?"

"I thought of you immediately"

"Free 10-minute analysis — no commitment"

"Most businesses save $800–$2,000 a month"

"I'll just connect you — they'll show you the numbers"

"Just wanted to make sure you had the option"

■ Final reminder:
Scripts are training wheels. Use them until you don't need them. The goal is to sound like yourself — someone who genuinely cares about helping a friend save money every month.