MODULE 06 · GROWTH PLAYBOOK

Tracking, Getting Paid & Scaling Up

Learn how to track your referrals, understand your payouts, and grow your referral income beyond your personal network.

- Track referrals
- Get paid
- Scale up

How to Submit a Referral

1. Get their name & number
   As soon as they say "yes, I'm interested" — even casually. First name + phone is enough to start.

2. Text TechSavvy within the hour
   Don't wait. The faster your referral lands, the faster follow-up happens while interest is hot.

3. Include context when possible
   What business they run, approximately how many card transactions per month if you know.

4. Let them know to expect contact
   Give your referral a heads-up: "Someone from TechSavvy will text you today to set up the free analysis."

5. That's it — TechSavvy takes over
   Their team handles the analysis, presentation, paperwork, and terminal. You're done.

- Referral template: "Hey [Name], I just referred [Business Owner] to you — they run [Business] and were interested in the free analysis. Expecting your text today."

Tracking Your Referrals

Treat your referral pipeline like a small business. Know where every lead stands. The partners who earn the most are the ones who stay organized.

- Identified
  You've noticed a potential referral but haven't reached out yet
  Tip: Keep a list — even rough notes on your phone
- Contacted
  You've had the first conversation, they showed some interest
  Tip: Follow up within 3 days if you haven't heard back
- Submitted
  You've sent their info to TechSavvy
  Tip: Give TechSavvy's team 24 hrs, then check status
- In Analysis
  TechSavvy is running their free statement review
  Tip: Don't crowd the merchant — let the team work
- Live / Won
  Merchant is set up and processing with TechSavvy
  Tip: Payout triggers on first live transaction
- Passed
  They said no — for now
  Tip: Mark a follow-up date 90 days out — circumstances change

Keep a simple tracking sheet — even a notes app list works. Name, business, status, and next follow-up date is all you need.

How & When You Get Paid

Your commission is earned when a referred merchant processes their first transaction with TechSavvy. Here's the full process:

Step 1 — Merchant goes live
Day 0 — They process their first card payment through TechSavvy's system

Step 2 — Trigger confirmed
TechSavvy logs the live transaction and assigns the commission to your account

Step 3 — Month-end calculation
At the end of the calendar month, all commissions are calculated and confirmed

Step 4 — Payout issued
You receive payment at the end of the following month (approx. 30–60 days after go-live)

Payout calculation example:

Merchant	Tier	Payout
Restaurant — $35,000/mo volume	Starter tier (25%)	$350 payout
Restaurant — $35,000/mo volume	Connector tier (50%)	$700 payout
Restaurant — $35,000/mo volume	Pro Partner (100%)	$1,400 payout

Expanding Beyond Your Personal Network

Once you've worked through your existing contacts, it's time to grow. The best partners don't stop at friends — they build systems.

Join local business groups

Hawaii has dozens of BNI chapters, chamber of commerce groups, and networking events. Attend once a month and mention TechSavvy naturally in conversation.

Become a community connector

When you help people beyond TechSavvy — vendors, suppliers, local events — you build social capital. People want to return favors.

Build your referral chain

Introduce two business owners to each other. Help a business find a supplier. These acts generate goodwill that converts into referrals for you.

Ask for warm introductions

Once you have a few wins, ask satisfied referrals: "Do you know any other business owners who might want to see their numbers?"

Social Media — The Passive Referral Engine

Post 1
"Just helped a friend discover they were overpaying $900/mo on card fees. Wild how common this is. DM me if you own a business that accepts cards."

Post 2
"Free tip for Hawaii business owners: when did you last check what you're actually paying in processing fees? The number might surprise you. DM me if you want a free look."

Post 3
"Quiet win today — connected a local restaurant owner with a way to eliminate their monthly processing bill. If you know a business owner, let's talk."

Best platforms for Hawaii businesses:

Facebook	Most Hawaii small business owners are active here. Local groups like "Hawaii Business Owners" are goldmines.
Instagram	Good for visual businesses (restaurants, retail). Story mentions can generate warm DMs.
LinkedIn	Best for professional services — accountants, medical, legal, real estate.
Nextdoor	Hyperlocal — great for neighborhood businesses and community trust signals.

Phase 1

Warm Network

Refer 1–3 people you already know. Get comfortable with the conversation. Collect your first wins.

Phase 2

Expanded Outreach

Ask satisfied referrals for introductions. Join one local business group. Post on social media once a week.

Phase 3

Community Positioning

Become known as "the person who helps business owners save money." Referrals start coming to you.

Phase 4

Connector Status

Business owners send you their contacts unsolicited. Your referral pipeline fills itself. You review and submit.

- The goal: by Month 3, you shouldn't need to cold-start conversations anymore. Your reputation does the work. Every merchant you help knows three more who could benefit.

Community Connector Blueprint

The highest earners don't think of themselves as referral partners — they think of themselves as community connectors. Here's the mindset shift.

What a community connector does differently:

★ Helps without expectation first
Before mentioning TechSavvy, they connect people, share resources, and solve unrelated problems. Trust comes first.

★ Positions as a resource, not a pitch
"I know a guy for that" — for any business problem. TechSavvy is just one of many tools in their toolkit.

★ Builds visibility in business communities
Shows up consistently at events, in local groups, and in conversations. Familiarity breeds trust.

★ Creates a referral circle
Links merchants to suppliers, suppliers to customers, customers to services. Everyone in the circle feels the value.

★ Lets TechSavvy's results do the talking
After a merchant saves $800/month, they tell their friends. The community connector just introduced them.
